CONTROVERSY OVER NOW?

Maniacal Murder With Chopper

Detectives are to-day busily engaged in a hunt for a friend, who made a savage attack on a middle-aged Chinese in the early hours of this morning.

The victim's body, now lying in the Victoria Public Mortuary, has not yet been identified.

The body, which bore multiple wounds on the head, throat, face and chest, suggestive of having had been inflicted with a chopper in the hands of a maniac, was discovered shortly after 7 a.m. by a soldier stationed at Lyemun Barracks.

The corpse was found on a forest path leading from the main military road, Shauiwan, to the Pak-shawan Fort, Lyemun.

Chief Detective Inspector John Murphy, personally visited the spot this morning to supervise investigations.

People's Warmest Wishes To Duke Of Windsor

Controversy raged round the marriage of His Royal Highness the Duke of Windsor to the very last, says the "Daily Telegraph."

It should end now, says the journal, as they enter upon a happy and useful private life into which they carry the good wishes of all.

London, To-day.

In the strenuous years in which the Duke served his country as his father's right hand, he deserved well of the British people and millions remember him with gratitude now he is a private citizen.

He is entitled to private happiness. May it be lasting and complete.

"We should like the Royal Family, too, to know that because of the intimacy uniting the people with the Royal House, we can sympathise with the feelings of its members."

The "Daily Herald," wishing the Duke and Duchess of Windsor a long life of married happiness, says it is the profound wish of those once his people that the Duke should be allowed the peace and quiet for which he asks.

The service which he gave his country for many years need not serve as his first title to this. He is a human being and that should be enough.

UNIVERSAL DESIRE
Inevitably the thoughts of the British people dwell upon the Duke of Windsor's marriage, says the "Daily Mail," and if those thoughts could be spoken they would have expressed the universal desire that the Duke and his bride should find great happiness.—Reuter.

The honeymooners arrived at Laroches by car and took train for Austria.

The Duke was dressed in a grey suit and wore a white carnation, but was hatless. They walked quickly to the carriage that had been reserved for them in the Simplon-Orient Express.

The Duke helped the Duchess into the coach and attended to the luggage, after which the train left for Austria.—Reuter.

Deutschland Deaths Now 28

Berlin, To-day.

The deathroll of the "Deutschland" has risen to 28 with the death in hospital of Schubert and Holzwarth, chief stokers.—Trans-Ocean.

First Stage Of Unique Journey

Shanghai, To-day.

Successfully completing the first stage of a 10,000-mile journey which is unique in the annals of medicine, Frederick Snite, Junr. accompanied by his family and medical attendants, arrived by special train at the Shanghai North Station at 3.15 a.m. to-day.

He was conveyed to the Shanghai General Hospital in the Settlement, in an ambulance, escorted by motor-cycle patrols.

The patient was well and cheerful having borne the trip admirably, though he was somewhat excited over the feeling of movement after fourteen months of confinement in hospital.

The journey from Peiping went without a hitch of any kind and the artificial respirator worked perfectly.—Reuter.

HINT OF BRITAIN'S PLAN FOR SPAIN

London, To-day.

Collectivisation of the control forces in Spain was prominently discussed by the London press yesterday. Special importance is attached to the application of international measures in case of further molestations of control ships in Spanish waters should they occur.

According to the "Daily Herald's" political correspondent, the British Admiralty is at present examining the technical possibility of establishing a committee composed of the four admiralities of Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy.

Such a Committee the paper explains would not only enable closer cooperation of the four patrol fleets, but also increase the individual safeties of the four fleets and find them jointly ranked as an international force.

The "Morning Post" declares that any attempt to form a bloc of the four Western powers in connection with non-intervention question would of course not be to the liking of Soviet Russia which was using all her influence to prevent it.—Trans-Ocean.

Naval Co-operation

Paris, To-day.

It is stated here that the British scheme for reorganising the Non-Intervention control does actually contain a proposal for a general naval co-operation. It is stated that details of his co-operation have already been discussed.—Trans-Ocean.
